Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-11, 15, and 17-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Matula et al. (2002/0165995).

Claim	Matula
1. A method for providing a meta-data programming level interface, the method comprising:	See the title and the abstract.
receiving an object name from a client program via a meta-data retrieval API, wherein said object name corresponds to an object located in a runtime environment that includes one or more methods;	See item 1000 of fig. 10. The "dynamic" feature in the title and the abstract refers to the "runtime" feature. Also, see sect. 0049 and see sect. 0051 for the reference to methods.
requesting meta-data associated with said object from said runtime environment;	See sect. 0050.
receiving said meta-data for each said method included in said object; and	" " "
transmitting said meta-data for each said method to said client program via said meta-data	See sect. 0052.

Art Unit: 2193

retrieval API.

2. The method of claim 1 wherein said client program is written in Java.

See the first step of fig. 10, which refers to JMI Interface.

3. The method of claim 2 further comprising: creating an internal data structure of the input class byte array in response to said requesting; and See sects. 0005, 0010, and 0057.

extracting a field and method data from said input class byte array to create said meta-data.

See sect. 0056 and 0065.

4. The method of claim 2 wherein said meta-data retrieval API includes a Java meta-data class.

See sect. 0018.

5. The method of claim 2 wherein said meta-data retrieval API includes a Java interface meta-data class.

6. The method of claim 2 wherein said meta-data retrieval API includes a Java method meta-data class.

7. The method of claim 2 wherein said meta-data retrieval API includes a Java field meta-data class.

8. The method of claim 2 wherein said meta-data retrieval API includes a Java meta-data type.

9. The method of claim 2 wherein said meta-data retrieval API includes a Java interface

Art Unit: 2193

meta-data type.

10. The method of claim 2
wherein said meta-data retrieval
API includes a Java parameter meta-data type.

“ “ “

11. The method of claim 2
wherein said meta-data retrieval
API includes a Java exceptions
meta-data type.

“ “ “

Claims 15, 17-19 and 21-22 are rejected as claim 4 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 12-14, 16 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matula et al. as applied to claims 1-11 above, and further in view of the applicant's choice of merely selecting a specific programming language to utilize, such as C++ or how data is retrieved. The selections would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to select a specific programming for its inherent features, such as for its compatibility with a specific language and platforms or for compatibility with a specific language. As per claim 20, the information included in metadata is considered a choice of design.
